

ALEXANDRIA, VIRGINIA.
SATURDAY, JUNE 5.

Mr. Reverdy Johnson, of Baltimore, has written to the New York Herald a criticism of President Grant's third-term letter. He holds that the limitation of the office to two terms is binding from long established usage, and says:

"I think it may, with perfect justice, be said that if the convention which framed the Constitution had anticipated the enormous extent of the official patronage which in time would necessarily be vested in the President, that they would have limited the official term to six or eight years and have rendered the incumbent ineligible. The idea of the President that the safety of the country may demand the reelection of a President for a third term, in my opinion, is an idle conceit, having no other support but the most egregious vanity."

Mr. Johnson does not think it probable that President Grant will be renominated or reelected a third term.

The steamer Crescent City, which arrived at Havana on Thursday, reports that on Tuesday, when off Sombrero Light, some of the flues in one of the boilers burst, throwing the burning cinders from the furnace into the coal bunkers, setting the coal on fire. The flames at once communicated to the woodwork through the ventilator, and for a time threatened the destruction of the ship. Fortunately, the fire was extinguished and a dreadful disaster prevented.

Bishop Hare yesterday made an unsuccessful attempt to induce the Indians to accept the proposition of the Government, concerning the giving up of their title to the Black Hills country. Red Cloud replied that he had had ears and judgment; that he had said little since coming to Washington, but he would have a good deal to say when the white man came to talk to him in his country. The Indians start for home to-day by way of New York.

The Coroner's Jury summoned to inquire into the cause of the death of one of the victims of the Holyoke disaster, has rendered a verdict to the effect that nearly all the deaths were those of people seated in the gallery. The jurors pronounced in strong terms the manner in which the building was constructed, and the inefficient means of egress from the church. They also deprecate the use of such inflammable ornamentation in public places.

The Mexican Government has not yet recognized the Spanish Legation at the City of Mexico on the ground that King Alfonso has failed to notify President Lerdo of his accession to the throne. The Spanish Government say that the notification has been sent, but must have miscarried.

CHEAP TRAVEL.—The facilities of travel between this section of Virginia and Washington, are now better than they have ever been. Round trip tickets are now issued from Manassas for Washington and return, for $1.75, below a little over two and a half cents per mile. These tickets are good only on the accommodation train running through to Washington, without change of cars. This train leaves the B. & P. depot, Washington, at 4 o'clock in the evening, coming South. Persons desiring to go to Washington on business will have several hours there. Washingtonians wishing to visit Manassas, to spend but a day, and, at the same time, avail themselves of the low fare, can take the 7 o'clock local train at the Sixth Street depot in the morning, getting a round trip ticket for Alexandria for 25 cents, and walk up to the Orange depot in time to get a round trip ticket for Manassas for $1.50 and take the 8 o'clock train.

This plan must be adopted as the accommodation leaves Washington only in the evening. Persons desiring to spend a night in Manassas can get the round trip ticket and take the 4 o'clock accommodation. —Manassas Gazette.

The passenger train leaves Front Royal daily at 4:37 a. m. and westward at 9:03 p. m. The freight train, with passenger car attached, leaves this depot at 8:20 a. m., for Alexandria, and for Strasburg at 2:52 p. m. daily. Parties wishing to visit Alexandria, Washington, Warrenton, Culpeper or Baltimore, can transfer a good deal of business and return to their homes the same day, which is a great convenience and saving of time and money. We must show our appreciation of this new schedule, by increased travel, in order to have it continued. —Page Courier.

REMOVED DEATH OF A YOUNG LADY.—There are rumors about a Richmond of a horrible death of a young lady at the hands of a mal-practitioner. It seems that the case destined to betray her misfortune approached, she begged her parents to allow her to visit relatives and friends in Washington, and several weeks ago she left home for Washington. But instead of going to Washington some went to a house of disrepute here, where some sort of operation was performed or some diabolical medicine taken. She communicated with her parents through the medium of some party in Washington. Her letters written here were dated and postmarked Washington, and those of her parents addressed to her at Washington, were forwarded here by the confidential friend. On Tuesday night death resulted from mal-practice it is believed. There has been no investigation yet, but as the whispers about the affair are growing louder and louder every day, it will soon become necessary for the officers of the law to do something either to prove to the public that the young lady died a natural death, or if she was murdered, as stated, that the guilty parties will be brought to justice and given the full benefits of the law. —*Cor. The newly-elected officers of the Masonic Grand Lodge of New York were installed yesterday. The actual number of Masons in the procession of Wednesday last was 23,682.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

Two white youths named Beauregard Hudson and George Hillman, the former aged thirteen and the latter eighteen, employees in a tobacco factory at Richmond, quarreled over the possession of a broom, and the result was that Hillman stabbed Hudson, who retaliated by throwing a stone at Hillman—Hillman then threw a stone at Hudson, and in return was stabbed in the left breast by Hudson with a large pocket knife. Hillman cannot recover. Hudson was arrested.

A correspondent of the Charlottesville Chronicle says: "The drought seems to have been severe on the crops between Orange Court-house and Alexandria. There are some good clover and wheat fields, but a bad succession of fields which have been well parched. In many places the fire has damaged the poor fences which the farmers have contrived to make out of brush wood."

A letter in the Culpeper Observer, from Fairfax county, says: "The oat crop in this section is a failure. The potato crops are very destructive to the potatoes. The corn is 'badly missing,' the wheat is not more, as a general thing, than 'half a crop,' and the grapes have been materially injured by the drought."

The 9th annual convention of the Baltimore Conference Sunday School Society of the M. E. Church South will be held at Lexington, July 13th-16th. This conference represents 151 churches in Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia, and embraces within its bounds over 500 Sunday-schools.

The Winchester News says: "The residence built by Mr. James W. Burgess, near the city spring, has been sold to a gentleman from New York for $3,500. The new purchaser is fitting it up in neat and thorough style."

The Warren Sentinel says: "The weather continues cool and dry. Well-informed farmers say that the grass and oats crops are gone beyond recovery; that but little wheat will be made, and that the corn has come up and is standing badly."

The Council of the city of Petersburg has voted an appropriation of $5,000 to the Agricultural Society of that city to assist in holding a fair. Gen. Mahone, President of the Society, appeared before the Council and urged the appropriation.

The Winchester News says: "The owners of sheep in this and adjoining counties are now realizing handsome profits from the sale of wool. One day this week our enterprising factoryman, Philip Williams, purchased over twenty-three hundred dollars' worth."

Mr. Charles Weedon's sheep-fold, near Manassas, furnished a fine feast for some half-starved hounds on Wednesday night to the tune of two ewes slaughtered, two maimed and torn, and the rest scattered in every direction.

Col. S. S. Bradford has accepted the presidency of the Piedmont Agricultural Society, and the 12th of October has been fixed upon as the day for the opening of the fair, which is to continue three days.

HOMICIDE IN CAROLINE COUNTY.—Last Saturday night Mr. James F. Campbell shot a hog, and traced it to the house of Edgar Robinson, colored. On the following Monday Mr. Campbell obtained a search warrant and a warrant to arrest Robinson, and in company with constable J. D. Broadbent went to Robinson's house and searched the premises, where fresh pork was found. Robinson was in the woods near by at work, and Mr. C. first coming upon him, Robinson attacked him with an axe, when Mr. C. drew his pistol and shot Robinson through the throat from the effect of which he died in a half hour afterwards.

Mr. Campbell surrendered himself to the proper authorities, and on Tuesday had a hearing at Bowling Green, before two magistrates, and was acquitted, the evidence showing justifiable homicide. —Fredericksburg Star.

The news from the Pennsylvania coal regions represents everything as quiet up to the present, no further demonstration of actual hostility having taken place, but this is owing entirely to the presence of the military. A mass meeting of miners was held at Mahanoy City yesterday, when it was unanimously determined to continue the strike, the workmen being promised assistance from other sections. At Mount Carmel an attempt was made to fire Holt's Hotel, petroleum having been thrown about, but it was fortunately discovered in time to prevent serious consequences. Great uneasiness exists all through the mining region, and it is thought, that it will be necessary to keep the military under arms for some time yet.

THE DROUGHT.—We have never known a more disastrous drought in this section than the one through which we are now passing. Little rain of any consequence has fallen within the last six weeks. The earth is dry and parched, and vegetation of all kinds is perishing. The oats and grass crop will be almost a total failure. Wheat will be short, and some fields that we have seen will not be worth harvesting. The corn crop is very much retarded—though an early rain would probably secure an average crop. —Page Courier.

The negro, Aring, was hung yesterday at Atlanta. He died fearless. Had nothing to say but good-bye. He wrote a letter to his father yesterday morning, and concluded by saying: "I expect to be a dead man in four hours. I expect to be slain under the gallows, and I hope at this time to be asleep as a dead pig in the sunshade." When asked to correct the last sentence he refused, stating a dead pig would know nothing and so would he.

There are no new developments in the Treasury Department robbery. The opinion is entertained by some that the missing money may possibly have been mislaid or put into the wrong envelope in making remittances to the banks, but this theory is not credited.

The Bribery Charges.

At a called meeting of the City School Board, held at Peabody Institute, last night, there were present: Edgar Snowden, Jr., chairman, and Messrs. J. W. Burke, Benoni Wheat, Jno. S. Beach, K. Kemper, Henry Whittington, C. C. Neale, S. F. Beach, Joseph Hopkins and O. C. Whittlesey.

The chairman stated that the meeting had been called at the instance of Mr. Hopkins, for the purpose of considering certain charges that had been brought against a member of the Board.

Mr. Hopkins then arose and said that he had been in public life for several years, but this was the first time in all those years that a charge affecting his official integrity had ever been brought against him, and that the one now trumped up, though affording some ground for talk, had in fact no substantial foundation. He had, he said, a statement to read, which contained a correct account of the whole transaction, and the truth of which would be sustained by Mr. Bradley, but before he read it he would take occasion to apologize to a member of the Board for some expressions of hard feelings he might have used towards him, but which were induced by reports brought to him by men in whom he believed, that the gentleman was vindictive towards him and had been pressing these charges, but that to day he had been informed by a mutual friend that these reports were untrue, and for that reason he would beg the gentleman's pardon—he alluded to Mr. Wheat. As no names had been mentioned in the newspaper charges either Mr. Beach or himself was the party alluded to, as they were the only members of the School Board who were members of the City Council, but if the charges had applied to individuals he would nevertheless ask for an investigation. He then read the following statement:

To the City School Board:
It is a well known fact to the members of the Board that I was in favor of building a new house for school purposes until it was determined that we could not raise sufficient funds to pay for such a building; then I became a warm advocate for the purchase of the Bradley building, which had been offered to the Board by Messrs. Green & Wise at a very low figure and on accommodating terms. While the matter was under consideration, and after the new building had been abandoned, Mr. Bradley called to see me, knowing I was a practical man, and urged his claim, saying, as near as I can remember, and I think I quote his exact words, "if you can conscientiously assist me I will hold you in kind remembrance." I certainly did not take Mr. Bradley to mean that he was giving me a sum of money or any other consideration, and he certainly at that time meant nothing of the kind, but it was merely an expression of friendship. Well, the Finance Committee, of which I was not a member, arranged for the purchase, and I voted to ratify what they did. Some weeks after the purchase, and while Mr. Bradley was engaged in closing out his stock, I was in the building arranging some alterations to be made, I purchased some furniture, and whilst engaged in this transaction, Mr. Bradley said: "I am going to make some of you gentlemen a present, and I intend that for your wife, if you prefer, take this," pointing to the furniture. Up to that time nothing had been said about furniture or anything else. I received the present, as many other of his friends did, and have no regrets, except the publication of this scandal, induced by a misrepresentation of facts. Such an act is an every day occurrence with men in public life, and those who hold up their hands in holy horror over such an innocent transaction are either blinded by prejudice or bent on stating that which they believe to be untrue. The chairman of the Board and other members have heard Mr. Bradley's statement of the affair, and they know whether or not it agrees with mine. Now these are the facts in the case, rumors to the contrary notwithstanding. If my statement is to be believed, and it is substantiated by that of Mr. Bradley made to members, surely they have been much ado about which I trust may take place before the whole Board, so it may be satisfactory to all. I am now prepared to answer all questions.

Mr. Wheat then arose and said he was astonished and surprised to hear what the gentleman said before he read his statement. It was the first intimation he had of the existence of any unkind feelings between the members and himself. He certainly had entertained no such feelings, and had taken no steps to propagate the charges that had been made. He had heard of them for months by rumor and innuendo but had invariably told those who approached him upon the subject that he would not act upon mere rumor and reports, but if they would give him date he would lay the matter before the Board and have an investigation. But he could get nothing satisfactory. The subject had almost died out at the time the late contest between Messrs. Hopkins and Monroe came on, when it was revived, the rumors again obtained circulation, and parties once more approached him on the subject with the same unsustained reports, but he had said to them, as he had before, that he could do nothing on such unsustained charges. He was glad Mr. Hopkins had asked for this investigation, and it was due to him, to Mr. Bradley, and to the whole community, that his request should be granted, that the investigation should be made by the whole Board, and that if the result vindicated Mr. Hopkins it would afford no more true gladness than himself, and no one would take more pains than himself to shut the mouths of the gentleman's accusers. He then moved that an investigation be held by the whole Board.

Mr. Hopkins then left the room, saying that if it was proposed to discuss the matter it would not be proper for him to remain.

Mr. John S. Beach said he saw no necessity for any investigation. All the members of the Board were acquainted with the whole circumstances of the case. The newspaper article that contained the charges in its first part decided them in the last. When the subject of concentrating the public schools was first brought up Mr. Hopkins favored the building of a new school house and had drawn plans for the same, but the Board had not money enough to carry those plans into execution. At a later date that had been bought, and offered it upon such reasonable terms that, if he recollected aright, no one objected to its purchase, except Mr. Carme and himself, and their objection was based solely upon the ground of the noisy location, but when they took into consideration the favorable terms upon which the building could be obtained they had also given their assent. As the newspaper article had exonerated Mr. Bradley the charge against Mr. Hopkins of course could not be sustained, for there could certainly be no bribe with a briber. He didn't think that Mr. Hopkins had taken an active part in favoring the purchase of the building, but that as he had drawn the plans for a new building, Mr. Bradley may have thought he deserved something for foregoing the pleasure of seeing them carried out. If the only two people who know all about the transaction—Mr. Bradley and Mr. Hopkins—deny that there was anything wrong about the transaction, to whom are we to go? and for that reason he thought the matter might as well be left where it is?

Mr. Neale said he would correct the gentleman upon one point. The Finance Committee of the Board, consisting of Messrs. Burke, Wheat and himself, had opposed the purchase from the first, and with Mr. Kemper, had always voted against it.

Mr. J. S. Beach said he thought an almost unanimous consent had been given to the purchase.

Mr. Burke said he had opposed the purchase and favored the erection of a new building for the reasons that the purchased building was already taxable, and that the erection of a new one would give employment to laborers and mechanics, the money be expended in the city, and the house constructed for the purpose for which it was wanted, and so avoid the necessity for the children to ascend to the third story.

Mr. Wheat said at first he thought a majority of the Board was in favor of building and not buying, and it was not until after Mr. Wise, the real estate agent, had stopped him several times on the street, with propositions to buy that he thought there was any probability of a purchase. Mr. Hopkins was also in favor of building, and he was surprised when Mr. Carme told him that Mr. Hopkins had changed his opinion, and was in favor of making the purchase. Mr. Addison, he knew, was always in favor of buying. When he, Mr. Wheat, found at a later date, by counting noses, that there was a majority of one or two in favor of buying, he changed his tactics, and offered a resolution authorizing the purchase provided it could be made for $14,000—a sum so small that he supposed it would put an end to further negotiations; that the Chairman of the Board had opposed his resolution upon the ground that the sum was so small that Mrs. Bradley would never consent to sign away her dower interest for that amount, and that he, Mr. Wheat, had replied that Mrs. Bradley was too good a wife to object to anything her husband thought would be to his interest. Mr. Burke had written to Mr. Bradley, informing him of the proposition and had received an answer by letter. He didn't think Mr. Hopkins would be satisfied to have this matter left without a full investigation—such an investigation, he repeated, was due to Mr. Hopkins, Mr. Bradley and the community. He was certain that Mr. Bradley would come before the Board and answer any questions that might be propounded to him by any members of the Board. In favoring this course he thought he was favoring Mr. Hopkins.

Mr. Burke said there was always a majority in favor of purchasing. He had opposed it, but not on account of the price, for all agreed that was not too much. Mr. Addison was enthusiastic upon the purchase, saying that from $1,300 to $1,400 a year could be derived from the rent of the lower rooms of the building for stores. In his, the speaker's, opinion, Mr. Bradley did not get half the cost of building the house.

At the request of Mr. Beach the Clerk read from the proceedings of April 10, 1874, to show that a resolution offered by Mr. Neale, authorizing the purchase of the building for $14,000, was adopted, and a substitute offered by Mr. Addison appropriating $14,400 for that purpose was lost.

The chair then said the question was upon the acceptance of Mr. Hopkins' statement, and that motion being put was carried.

Mr. Burke said the usual way to consider such matters was to appoint a committee for that purpose, but hoped he would not be put upon that Committee.

Mr. Wheat said he hoped Mr. Hopkins' report would be complied with, and that the investigation be had before the whole Board—it would then be more satisfactory to all parties.

Mr. Burke said that as both Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Bradley—the only ones acquainted with the facts—were absent, it would be useless to go on with the examination, and that if the Board entertained that idea of his motion he would alter it so as to read, that he be had at such time and place as Messrs. Bradley and Hopkins could be present.

His motion was then adopted and the meeting adjourned.
